

Shed in the hedge

In 2025, I restored a vintage shed which had been hidden in the overgrowth of the hedge for some 30 years. I created a new look for the interior with vintage tools found on the allotment as well as a display of seeds. I had to remove a lot of ivy and tons of soil which had buried the base of the shed. I estimate the shed was built in the 1980s and last used in the early 1990s, I found crisp packets from 1986 and others of similar age in the lower levels of the soil but nothing earlier than early 1980s. I have created a video, "The shed in the hedge" to show the work that has been carried out on this project.

London's oldest allotments

The Shed in the hedge